NOTE.—None of the above files are complete.

By a recent law, all annual reports to be submitted to the Legislature, are required to be made out on or before the fifth day of December, for the year ending on the last day of November. The report now presented, therefore, includes but eleven months of the year, beginning January 1st, and ending on December 1st, 1861; during which time there have been three incumbents of the office of State Librarian.

S. P. Jennison, Esq., who presented the last annual report, resigned June 24th, to enter the Second Regiment of Minnesota Volunteers; and was succeeded by Dr. Thomas Foster, who held the office until November 7th, when he accepted the appointment of Commissary of Subsistence, in the service of the General Government, and the present incumbent assumed the duties of Librarian.

In the foregoing part of this report will be found a properly arranged list of the additions to the Library for eleven months of the year, terminating December 1st, 1861, showing the entire accession, since the last report, from all sources, to amount to seven hundred and forty five volumes, bound and unbound, and exceeding the additions of last year by over three hundred.

The total number of complete works, and sets of works, received, in the eleven months, (exclusive of duplicate and triplicate copies, and of newspapers), is one hundred and sixty, nearly one half being pamphlets or books wholly unbound, and they may be thus further classified:

1. How acquired.

|                                   |           |     |
|-----------------------------------|-----------|-----|
| By purchase, [Minnesota Reports,] | - - - - - | 1   |
| By exchange,                      | - - - - - | 150 |
| By donation,                      | - - - - - | 9   |
|                                   | —         | 160 |

2. General nature of the works.

|                                     |           |     |
|-------------------------------------|-----------|-----|
| Supreme Court Reports,              | - - - - - | 25  |
| Laws and Statutes,                  | - - - - - | 28  |
| Congressional "Documents,"          | - - - - - | 24  |
| State and Colonial "Documents,"     | - - - - - | 77  |
| Publications of Literary Societies, | - - - - - | 5   |
| Miscellaneous,                      | - - - - - | 1   |
|                                     | —         | 160 |

In addition to the above, there have been received one hundred and eighty-three books, and sets, which are extra copies of works included in the list of additions, as may be seen by reference thereto, making a total of three hundred and forty-three.

Under the frank of the Governor, which is allowed for the purpose, the library of every loyal State of the Union, and of every Territory where the capital was known, have been supplied with the documents, laws, journals, and reports usually contributed, and a record kept of the same.

The plan of exchanges of documents, &c., with Canada, inaugurated by one of my predecessors, has been regularly continued; and the Library of the Parliament of that Government now contains one set, at least, of all the publications of our State that are in print.

Nearly all of the newspapers published in the State have been received,—in some cases very irregularly, however,—in exchange for a copy of all the Legislative publications for the year.

There are at least one thousand of the “Constitutional Debates,” and about sixty-five copies each of the United States Statutes (pamphlets), of various years, on hand, a portion of which might be judiciously donated to libraries in the State.

Such has been the demand on the time of the Librarian, during the past eight months, in another department, made by the extraordinary duties growing out of the unnatural rebellion which now disturbs every part of our land, but little progress has been made in compiling the catalogue contemplated by the eleventh and twelfth sections of the Act referred to at the commencement of this report.

It has been found necessary the past, as in former years, to employ an assistant during the session of the Legislature, and the terms of the Supreme Court.

The following is a memorandum of the payments made from the contingent fund, which the present Librarian found exhausted when he took charge of the Library.

During the year additional space has been gained for arranging the books, by the expenditure of seventy dollars of the appropriation for shelving, so that by eliminating and boxing the duplicate volumes of Congressional documents, no increase of room will be required at present.

The law enacted by the last Legislature, regulating the State Library, is a vast improvement on the one repealed; inasmuch as it does away with the notion that a State library is nothing more nor less than a circulating library, and recognizes the primary purpose of such an institution—the collection of such information as will meet the wants of legislators, and the various officers and agents of the State government.

The initiatory step in the formation of State Libraries was taken more than half a century ago by the State of Massachusetts, in originating that system of exchanges which is now participated in by all the States as well as the General Government, and extends, in some instances, with the older States, even to the European governments.

State libraries, therefore, being similar in origin, have a similarity in growth; and thus instituted, become special in character, and are not to be valued by the number of volumes they contain, but by their fullness in all those departments of reference, which are most desirable for the public officers of the government.

Many of the State Libraries have already attained a ripe age. They have ceased to be experiments, and in all the States are found to be so useful and important, as great depositories of knowledge and wisdom, that they may be considered a fourth branch of the government, silent and unobtrusive, giving advice and counsel to the other three in all that appertains to the highest exercise of human wisdom.

So perfect has become the management of many of the older State Libraries, that there is no longer any excuse for experimental legislation in regard to them. All that need be done in the further enlargement of our own library, to increase its usefulness and value, is the adoption of such rules and measures as have been found the most beneficial elsewhere.

The Law Department of our Library, as seems to be the case in other States, is the most used. Probably it contains the most perfect collection of statutes, laws, and judicial decisions of the United States and the several States, that is to be found within the limits of the State. Yet there is not in the whole library a complete series of the Law Reports of any one State. There may have been; but the former law regulating the use of the library seemed better calculated for its wasting than for its preservation, and was altogether so lax that many valuable volumes have disappeared forever, from the shelves. Even the present law is not sufficiently stringent. It allows attorneys during the terms of the Supreme Court, "to take and use any number of books needed on the trial of causes," and allows the using of the books thus taken from the library, in any part of the city of Saint Paul, in the language of the Act, "the seat of government."

We may well follow the example of older States, and confine so free a use of the books taken during the terms of the Supreme Court, to the precincts of the capitol itself.

It is desirable for the Library to contain, at as early a day as possible, a complete series of the statutes, laws, and the legal decisions of the highest judicial authorities of the General and State governments, as well as such English Common Law and Equity Reports as are practical. As the volumes deficient can only be obtained by purchase, it will be necessary to make an appropriation of one or two hundred dollars a year, for a few years, to accomplish such a result.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

ROBERT F. FISK, State Librarian.
